"WE COULDN'T GO IN"

The sirens wailed by as I was out jogging early Tuesday morning. From their sounds, it appeared that not only our Oronoko-Berrien Springs volunteer fire department was responding, but units from nearby towns as well. Only later did I learn of the deadly fire that engulfed an apartment building not far from campus.

Eye witnesses spoke to John Paul, an WSBT-TV reporter who wrote up an account for the South Bend Tribune (11-16-11). Rhodel Kabah, a resident of the apartment complex, told him, "I kept hearing shattering glass and screams." A neighbor, Quigley Morris, described standing outside the raging inferno: "The most difficult thing I've ever done in my life was to stand and listen to the mother cry and know there's a kid in there." The three-year-old child was trapped in an upstairs bedroom.

REVIVAL & REFORMATION

GOD'S SPIRIT NEEDED IN THE LAST DAYS

I GET ON MY KNEES

"We have to pray with our eyes on God, not on the difficulties."

- Oswald Chambers

PRAYER NECESSARY FOR SPIRITUAL HEALTH

"Several times each day precious, golden moments should be consecrated to prayer and the study of the Scriptures, if it is only to commit a text to memory, that spiritual life may exist in the soul. The varied interests of the cause furnish us with food for reflection and inspiration for our prayers. Communion with God is highly essential for spiritual health, and here only may be obtained that wisdom and correct judgment so necessary in the performance of every duty." EGW, Prayer, 18.

UNITED PRAYER

In need of a quiet place to get refreshed spiritually and spend some time seeking the Lord? Come & join us in Buller Hall's beautiful Red Rose Prayer Chapel. Prayer group meets Mondays from 12:30-1:30 PM and Thursdays from 5:00-6:00 PM. Open to all ages.

HOUSE OF PRAYER

WEDNESDAY @ 7 PM, SANCTUARY

House of Prayer is taking a Thanksgiving break and will resume our series on the Gospel of Matthew on November 30. Why not spend this Wednesday evening with someone else giving thanks for what God has done for you?

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

RMES / BABIES IN THE CLASSROOM

Mrs. Hickerson's third graders were in for a real treat when they got to class on Monday. "The baby birds have hatched from their eggs," Mrs. Hickerson told them. "Let's try and leave them alone for a week, and on Tuesday you can take a closer look at them."

Hickerson's zebra finches have been classroom pets for years. The sweet chirping that resonates through the room quickly becomes background noise to the students, though it's often the first thing that visitors notice.

This is not the first time these winged parents have been successful in hatching their eggs. One baby was added to the group this past summer while the classroom was empty. This new batch, which contains three or four new birds, was the first group to be hatched while school was in session.

What a fun, miraculous experience for our third graders! Thank you, Jesus, for sharing this gift with them, and for making RMES a fun place to experience your handiwork!

STUDENT AID / THANK YOU

Thank you to each of you who support the PMC student aid fund. Because of you many of our children can attend a Christian school where they learn more about God and His work in our lives and in the lives of those around us and in the forces of nature as well.

Here is a thank you note addressed to you from a grateful parent.

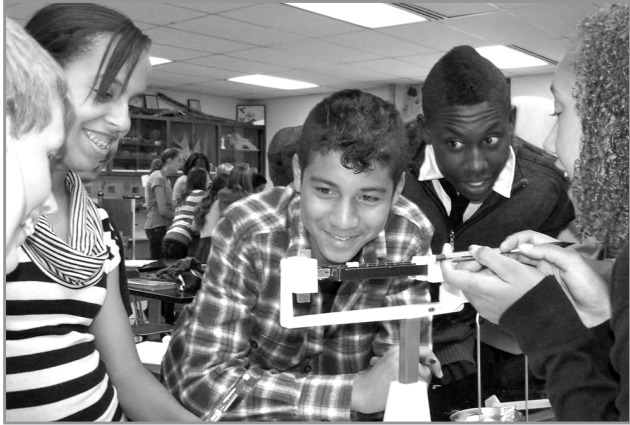

Dear Church Family,

It is the dream of every Christian parent to see their children grow up in the fear and admonition of the Lord. It is with fear and trembling that we come to grasp the magnitude of the task of training our young to fear God in this age. We realize that we are not equal to the task.

We thank God for His schools; Andrews Academy and Ruth Murdoch, for His spirit-led principals and teachers, and for the investment which you, our church family, have made in our children. We are trying to do our faithful part, but it takes more than parents to raise faithful youth. Keeping more than one child in church school while I complete my degree here is a financial struggle for us, but God is able. Thank you for choosing to be an active part of our "village" by financially assisting our children to benefit from Christian education.

*Sincerely,
A parent*

PRAY

That our young people will grow to love God

MUSIC ALIVE

CHORALES IN CELEBRATION

Gracing today's celebratory worship journey are several German chorale melodies.

Typically a chorale melody has one or more musical phrases repeated once. Then the chorale moves on to another musical phrase or phrases, sometimes concluding by repeating some portion of the opening.

Today's worship journey begins with "Praise the Almighty, My Soul, Adore Him." The melody is one of great energy, and stems from 1665 or earlier (from approximately the Pilgrim era in America). An energetic sung version by the chorale is complemented by a similarly-energized version for organ by composer Johann Georg Herzog.

Regarding "Praise to the Lord" (No. 1), hymnwriter Joachim Neander was rector of a Calvinistic Lutheran school in Germany. But as a Pietist he held his own prayer meetings, without consulting the minister, leading to suspension followed by humiliating reinstatement with a ban on his public preaching. This writer loved a valley with high rocky sides through which the Düssel river flows, and he composed hymns there. This "Neanderthal Valley" was named after him, and thus indirectly also was named an anthropological discovery, the so-called "Neanderthal man."

Finally, a thirty-year war is a long war. The pastorate of Martin Rinkart, author of the chorale text "Now Thank We All Our God" (No. 559), in Eilenburg, Germany covered the period of the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648). Eilenburg was walled, and thus served as a magnet for war refugees. Unusual overcrowding and food shortages resulted, and increased danger of epidemic disease fouled the air. Indeed, Rinkart conducted funeral services of two resident and two refugee members of the clergy. Their death left him as the only clergymen to conduct burials, at times as many as 40 a day. In time, his own wife was taken by the plague, and he became ill but survived.

While the actual time of writing of "Now Thank We All Our God" is unknown, circumstances imply that Rinkart wrote it in about 1635, or about halfway through the war. What a remarkable testament this hymn is, then, of thankfulness in the midst of loss!

Celebrate the Feast!*

The parents tried to coax her to the bedroom window, but she was too frightened. "When they told me a kid was in there, I said we have to do something," Morris went on. "[But] when we tried to go through the door, it was impossible. The smoke was in our faces." Firefighters later recovered the child's body. The child's father was airlifted to a burn unit in Kalamazoo, where he is recovering from extensive burns and broken feet from his second-story jump.

Berrien Springs Oronoko Township fire chief Bruce Stover later observed that the fire simply grew and spread too rapidly, preventing any possible rescue of the trapped three-year-old. "We couldn't go in," he said. "We wanted to go in, but we couldn't go in; there was nothing we could [do] to search for the child." And so our community mourns with the grieving family.

"We couldn't go in." Because the truth is, sometimes it is simply too late—too late to save the entrapped, too late to "rescue the perishing."

In a civilization whose flash points and hot spots could engulf an entire region or even the world in a matter of days, the fate of seven billion really is a big deal, isn't it? How many of earth's children are even cognizant of the smoldering danger that could at any moment explode into an inferno? What shall we do for them?

What if we had known a way to save that little girl this week—what if we could have rescued her but chose not to? How would her parents respond? Desire of Ages minces no words: "How would a father and mother feel, did they know that their child . . . had been passed by, and left to perish, by those who might have saved it? Would they not be terribly grieved, wildly indignant? Would they not denounce those murderers with wrath hot as their tears, intense as their love?" (825). And could you blame them? Now comes the zinger: "The sufferings of every man are the sufferings of God's child, and those who reach out no helping hand to their perishing fellow beings provoke His righteous anger" (ibid). The very strong point? We cannot stand by and do nothing. Because the people we study with, work with, live with, play with, and neighbor with belong to our Father, they are our family, too. We must go in after them.

After all, Christ did for us—irrespective of the infinitely high cost he had to pay. We must go in after them. For Jesus' line seems all the more apropos as the holidays approach, "Freely you have received; freely give" (Matthew 10:8).

Milton Agay, police chief for our village and township, told the reporter: "You wish you could do more, but what can anyone say? You just feel heartbroken for the family and for the loss of a life." Well put, Chief. So let us go in now before it's too late.

LABELS FOR INVESTMENT

Many thanks to those who submit Worthington Foods and Cedar Lake labels and boxes to the Children’s Material Resource Center for Investment. Please note that the bar codes shown here with the numbers 28989 (Worthington Foods) and 73582 (Cedar Lake) are the only label bar codes that are eligible for investment purposes. Also, it is important that labels/boxes are submitted with the bar codes in tact. Boxes or labels with the bar codes removed or torn so they are not useable are not able to be included in the count sent to the redemption centers, nor are box “tops”. (It would actually be extremely helpful, and not nearly as messy, if only the bar codes were turned in rather than turning in the whole label or box, although we will take the whole label or box – with the bar codes in tact). And one final note, Campbell Soup labels and “points” from various food containers are not used by PMC in any way. Please submit those items directly to the academy or high school you know submits these for redemption. Thank you again – keep those bar codes coming!
