LEARNING FROM BEYONCÉ

So now that the pomp and circumstance of the Inauguration are past and the last remnants of paper flags and confetti have been swept away, what shall we learn? The frequently repeated reminder about the peaceful transition of government in this land is worth restating, I suppose. And the old adage about memorizing your lines was proven true in the President's momentary slip in repeating the oath, giving comfort to all of us who have done the same.

But the music—it was majestic, wasn't it?—by any standards, one could argue. The U.S. Marine Corp Band, the Brooklyn Tabernacle Choir, James Taylor, Kelly Clarkson. And then there was Beyoncé's rendition of the national anthem to close it all. Buoyant with energy and confidence, the young

REVIVAL & REFORMATION

WAITING

BY DENNIS HOLLINGSEAD

I was sitting in the girls' dorm lobby (Graf Hall) at Pacific Union College. I had asked a girl to go to a music concert in Paulin Hall and we had agreed to be there a bit early to find good seats. After the dorm monitor notified her on the intercom that I had arrived, I sat down. Now, we all know that doctors and dentists have a waiting room and that it is used for that purpose. But why a dorm lobby is not also called a waiting room is truly a mystery to me. I waited ... and waited ... and then waited some more. Finally she arrived and we made it to the concert on time, but finding seats less desirable.

I don't remember the concert or who was playing. I suppose the concert was just a ploy to be able to spend some time with a person of interest. Over the last 40 years I have spent much time waiting, and I suppose she has been just as patient with me the two times I have made her wait (it's a joke). We have laughed about this many times during those 40 years.

Jesus has made an appointment with His fiancé—the church. We, His church, have been waiting for Jesus' Second Coming, asking, "Where is He? When will He come again? Why does He delay?" The truth is, Jesus the groom is waiting for His fiancé to get dressed! He is the one in the waiting room waiting for her to put on the white garment! He has been waiting a long time. And this is where Connect—Grow—Serve—Go helps us take "baby steps" to get where we want and need to be spiritually. Use the Grow Groups to help get ourselves and the world ready to meet the Groom!

Will we continue to keep Him waiting? We cannot keep Him waiting any longer!

"Look at me. I stand at the door. I knock. If you hear me call and open the door, I'll come right in and sit down to supper with you" Revelation 3:20 (The Message).

Please pray:

- For the GROW Groups, ask God if you should become involved, and for the leaders and members who participate.
- That God will lead all of us to take the "baby steps" necessary to get ready for the Groom.
- For Adventist Southeast Asia Projects (ASAP) and how you can join with their staff in prayer through the end of January. <http://www.asapministries.org/pray/>
- For those taking the SAT test tomorrow and the PRAXIS text on Monday.

OPERATING EXPENSE

JUNIOR ISS / CREATIVITY IN THE CLASSROOM

Last quarter Junior I Sabbath School went beyond the intensely commercialized Christmas season to focus on the greatest gift of all. Students saw a very large box wrapped in Christmas paper in their SS classroom. It was the size of a kitchen stove. For the next few weeks, this box (representing the gift of Jesus) became the center of attention. Children were encouraged to drop their "gifts" into it. These gifts could be notes of things that the young people wanted to "give up," such as playing video games, watching movies, and having bad attitudes toward parents. The box also held overflowing gifts to each child, gifts that could be shared and passed on. Finally, the box was filled with a manger scene. The conversion to a manger scene was no problem, but finding a nativity set was a challenge. Most stores had discontinued selling large sets. However, our need was passed on by word of mouth, and a generous family in Florida heard of it and loaned us their valuable family heirloom.

This quarter our theme is "The Heavens Declare the Glory of God." We have constructed a real working model of eight constellations so that our students can become familiar with Orion and Pleiades and six other popular constellations.

It takes a lot of time, energy, and creativity to work in the children's Sabbath School department. We welcome more people with ideas to keep the wonders of salvation attractive and fun in the eyes of a ten-year-old. Come stop by!

PRAY

That hearts will be won to Jesus

MASTER PLAN OF EVANGELISM

GYC / GENERATION. YOUTH. CHRIST.

Most of us have talked it. Studied it. Read it. Thought it. In Seattle this winter, thousands of young people came together to pray it and act it. GYC, an annual youth conference, met in Seattle over the New Year holiday with the goal of challenging Adventist young people to continue the revolution that began in the life of Jesus and moved forward in the book of Acts with the early church.

A group of PMC youth joined the other young people from around the world in praying for and acting on the resolution as begun by Jesus and reflected in the book of Acts. The young people responded that the sessions and speakers were impactful. But it was taking action that made the difference. Sunday afternoon buses took the young people all over the city to reach out and share Jesus. The experience “gave me a chance to see that not everyone in the U.S. is reached and that I can make a difference,” reports Anna Benko. And Matthew Bryson says, “The outreach was definitely awesome . . . It showed us how many people need to be reached and learn about Jesus.” Anna and Matthew were among hundreds of Adventist young people who were looking for the opportunity to take action and continue the revolution. Some of these young people, the ones looking to continue the revolution, are here at Pioneer.

For the young people to continue the revolution

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

ANDREWS ACADEMY / SOWING IN INDIA

Sow Safari, Andrews Academy's biennial two-week mission trip, has been an important part of AA's mission since 1986. The name, SOW Safari, speaks to the goal of the trip: Service through construction of a church or school building; Outreach through Vacation Bible Schools; and Witness through evangelism.

This past Christmas break 21 students went to Falakata, India, to construct two one-day churches, conduct a VBS, and preach. Twenty-one were baptized and several people made their first commitment to God! Both churches were built, dedicated, and overflowing prior to our group's departure!

AA student Anna Rorabeck reflected on what it felt like to come back home and what she missed about India. "I love being able to drink water from the tap. I love all-American macaroni and cheese. I love seeing my parents again. I love taking hot showers, and NOT using a bucket. I love my soft bed, which is more than a 2-inch-thick mattress on plywood. I love my phone. I love my home."

"I miss the children that smiled all the time. I miss hugging them and pretending to understand what they said in Bengali. I miss seeing churches being built in front of my eyes and being part of building them. I miss the beautiful mountains of Darjeeling (but not the carsickness that went with driving up them). I miss shopping in Delhi where you can buy a silk scarf for $2. I miss seeing the beautiful big red sun every morning. I miss the crazy traffic that made me think I was going to die. I miss being in short sleeves and sandals in January and seeing flowers everywhere. I miss the miracles that we witnessed. I miss India!"

PRAY

For God's blessing in India

singer belted out the familiar “Star Spangled Banner.” And all was well.

Until somebody suggested that in fact she was lip-syncing with a recording of herself, a recording that included the accompaniment of the Marine Corp Band. Lip-syncing? You know, singing along with yourself, so to speak. Google the story and you’ll read a host of opinions, including some who say the band itself wasn’t really accompanying the singer, just moving their fingers and hands and lips. Just like Beyoncé.

But does it really matter? No. Singers have done it a thousand times before (for a host of reasons, including feeling ill), and they will surely do it again. But the act of singing along with yourself does provide a current events segue (the weekly theme of this Fourth Watch blog) to an ancient concept that still matters.

Jesus once gave a definition of what it means to be a disciple: “A disciple is not above his teacher, but everyone who is perfectly trained will be like his teacher” (Luke 6:40). His point? If you want to be a disciple, seek to become like your master. And if your Master is the Lord Jesus Christ, then the goal of anyone who desires to follow Him is to be like Him. It’s been that way for millennia—the young followers of sages and prophets and masters have ever sought to become like their leader. Jesus says it is to be so for those of us who choose to follow Him.

I like the way Desire of Ages describes it: “Christ is sitting for His portrait in every disciple.” “Let Him be reflected in [your] character and manifested in [your] life.” (826) Then you won’t be singing along with yourself—why make yourself your highest standard? You’ll be singing along with Him—and it will be His voice that will be heard through you. And when the song is over, He will be the One they’ll be talking about—which, of course, is what every disciple wants in the first place.

Then the eleven disciples went away into Galilee, to the mountain which Jesus had appointed for them.

When they saw Him, they worshiped Him; but some doubted.

And Jesus came and spoke to them, saying, "All authority has been given to Me in heaven and on earth. Go therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the age." Amen.

MUSIC ALIVE

AN INSTRUMENT

Known as St. Francis of Assisi, Italian Francesco Bernardone (1181/82 to 1226) while in his twenties, turned his back on the riches and dissipation of his family to devote himself to poverty and helping others. At the point of his decision, he was riding horseback one day and came upon a leper. Repulsed at first, he turned away, but then returned, embraced the man, and gave him the money that he had. Another time, while in Rome, he exchanged clothing with a beggar, then stood fasting among the beggars at a church. It is a well-known prayer of this St. Francis of Assisi that provides text for the Worship in Music today. The text has been memorably set also in a solo song. Its message shines through the ages to our day.

WORSHIP IN PRAISE

Music should have beauty, pathos {emotional appeal}, and power. Let the voices be lifted in songs of praise and devotion. Call to your aid, if practicable, instrumental music, and let the glorious harmony ascend to God, an acceptable offering (Evangelism page 505, paragraph 1).

We are blessed with a bounty of musical gifts from faithful followers of Jesus Christ. More so we inhabit a sanctuary with fervent worshippers of our Creator, Savior, and Friend. This passion to praise God expresses itself with as much diversity that spans the globe. Whether its in the ancient biblical practice of raised hands, or quiet prayerful submission of a bowed head, or the delicate melodies of a harp, or the awesomeness of the organ, they, singers and musicians, are united in authentic, heartfelt worship of Jesus Christ. Our worship through song, prayer, silence, posture, giving, instruments, or voice is moved as a response to the Revelation of Jesus Christ

“Whenever the living creatures give glory, honor and thanks to him who sits on the throne and who lives for ever and ever, the twenty-four elders fall down before him who sits on the throne and worship him who lives for ever and ever. They lay their crowns before the throne and say:

‘You are worthy, our Lord and God,
to receive glory and honor and power,
for you created all things,
and by your will they were created and have their being.” (Revelation 4:9-11)
