“THE SKY IS FALLING!”

Remember the story about Chicken Little, meandering down the road when an acorn fell from the oak tree, striking her on the head? Panicked, she ran down the road squawking to all who would listen: “The sky is falling, the sky is falling, and we must tell the king!” Chicken Little’s cry in Henry Penny’s children’s tale has become a familiar idiom for hysteria over disaster that really isn’t imminent.

Last Friday our terrestrial home in the solar system experienced (within less than twelve hours) the direct strike of a meteor in Russia and the near miss of a second asteroid, 2012 DA14. Since the trajectories of the two orbiting pieces of giant space rock were vastly different, scientists have been quick to dismiss any connection between the two outer space visitors. The school-bus sized meteor that exploded 18-32 miles above the Ural mountains near Chelyabinsk is now the star of so many YouTube videos

REVIVAL & REFORMATION

AN ARMY CONVERTED

BY DENNIS HOLLINGSEAD

When David ran from Saul he did not ask God where to go, which led him into two situations where he lied, causing the deaths of many priests as well as difficulty for himself (1 Samuel 21:1, 2, 13). When he finally arrived at the cave of Adullam, he attracted about 400, and eventually 600, disgruntled ruffians—men in debt and running from the law. It was in the cave of Adullam that David wrote Psalm 57. Many other Psalms were written while he was fleeing Saul (Psalms 52, 54, 56, 63, 102, and 142, among others). When we read these Psalms, we understand what David must have been sharing and witnessing with those men. He was telling them by voice and action about God's love, forgiveness, patience, and mercy; yet also telling God about all his trials and oppression by Saul, the Philistines, and other evil men. All the years that they were pursued, David occasionally made mistakes but continued to trust in God; and even through the mistakes he was teaching his men about God. When the opportunity was given, he did not take vengeance on Saul (1 Samuel 24:9 & 26:11) or on Nabal (1 Samuel 25:39)—but only because of Abigail's quick actions and brave speech. This is a remarkable story of how a quick-thinking woman thwarted David's momentary intention for vengeance and reveals another step in the spiritual journey of David and his men.

When news of Saul's death came to David, he and all his men mourned and fasted all day for Saul, Jonathan, and the people of Israel (2 Samuel 1:11, 12). He and his men exhibited the same attitude and behavior toward Saul as Samuel had done many years before (1 Samuel 15:11, 35). David's positive example, through words, song, and lifestyle, converted his men to have similar characters as he. Even though hardened warriors, they were also loving and caring men, following him even as he followed the Lord (Philippians 3:17).

What about our band of followers and fellow warriors fighting against evil—our family, friends, neighbors, co-workers? Do we thank and praise God in their presence for the blessings we have received? Have we testified of how God kept us from acting rashly and foolishly? In our daily lives, do they see the principles of God's kingdom exhibited: love, forgiveness, patience, mercy, and unselfishness?

Please pray for:

- The GROW Groups as they continue to study, pray, and develop friendships.
- The Niles Westside SDA Church as they start their GPS Prophecy meetings on Tuesdays and Sabbath; and that the members will be effective disciples.

OPERATING EXPENSE

THREE-YEAR-OLD SS / LEARNING TO BE MISSIONARIES

My three-year-old son Jonah loves taking part in three-year-old Sabbath School. Whether it is singing action songs or ringing bells, I can tell he is engaged and enjoying it. One thing he particularly enjoys is being a part of the missionary action song. The children take turns wearing smocks pretending to be missionary doctors, nurses, dentists, carpenters, and teachers. Jonah beams with pride as he stands up front wearing his smock while the class sings together. The challenge is that there are about 30 children in the class and only five smocks! You can imagine the impatience poor Jonah felt, waiting weeks for his turn to come up again. The weeks in between I would console Jonah and wipe away his tears as I explained that everyone deserves a turn and that we should be happy for them. Those of you who are parents know that consoling a three-year-old is not for the faint of heart!

This past December our family was blessed with the opportunity to go on a mission trip with Maranatha Volunteers International. We were a part of the final phase of construction of an Adventist elementary school in Nueva Guinea, Nicaragua. You can imagine the excitement when we arrived and shared with Jonah that he was going to be a real missionary and help build a school for little children like him. So Jonah traded in his smock for a real hardhat and a paint brush and helped with a little bit of painting.

We are very happy that Jonah can attend a Sabbath School where he is already learning to share his "talents" to help others. —Marlene Bourget

MASTER PLAN OF EVANGELISM

YOUTH MINISTRIES / WHO WILL YOU FOLLOW?

It's true, just like my mom and probably your mom said, there are two decisions in this life that you cannot risk to go wrong on: Who you are going to marry and who your life is committed to following. Because of this, it is an important part of Pioneer's ministry to create a culture for spiritual decisions.

This last week eighteen of our young people finished baptismal classes and over the spread of the rest of the year their baptisms will be celebrated. The classes have been a combination of teaching and mentoring the young people into a regular commitment of their own to spend time with Jesus.

Another set of classes will be starting in March.

We invite you, or a friend you know, to join us; just talk to Pastor Goetz by e-mailing goetz@andrews.edu or calling 471.6176. —Micheal Goetz

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

RMES / YOUNG SCIENTISTS

Kids are getting really creative at Ruth Murdoch Elementary School as our C Wing students explore the scientific method.

The assignment: each student in grades 3 and 4 had to create a science experiment or exploration project and follow the scientific method in completing their projects. Our students certainly came up with some creative ideas! From "Alka Seltzer Lava Lamp" to "How to Make an Egg Bounce," and from "How Does Your Spaghetti Cook?" to "Electric Balloons," these young scientists put a lot of thought, time, and research into their work.

Students were given the freedom to design their own projects; however, they all followed the same process of inquiry, observation, and reflection.

The method used by our third- and fourth-graders was similar to this:

1. Start with a question
2. Conduct research
3. Create a "hypothesis" (educated guess)
4. Conduct the experiment
5. Record the data
6. Publish the results

Guidance from parents is always welcomed; however, our students were encouraged to create these projects on their own, from brainstorming ideas to putting the finishing touches on their presentation posters that now adorn our hallways. The creativity and unique expression of process and results show that our school is blessed with thinkers!

Through the entire process, our hope is that our young people are once again reminded that our God is a God of order, a God who can create amazing, mind-blowing objects, and that their desire to learn more about Him will flourish! —Wendy Keough

THANK

God for the gift of creativity that it feels like we know each other. Streaking into our atmosphere at a speed of 19 miles a second (bullets travel at four miles per second), this meteor (meteors are asteroids that enter earth's atmosphere; meteorites are meteors that actually strike the earth as this one eventually did) disintegrated with energy 30 times the force of Hiroshima's nuclear bomb! Thus the sonic boom and the 1200 injured from the shockwave-induced flying glass.

2012 DA14 achieved its own distinction a few hours later by becoming the “closest-ever predicted approach to Earth for an object this large,” according to NASA. It's more leisurely speed of 5 miles per second brought this half-a-football-field sized asteroid to within 17,200 miles of our home. Just fifteen minutes difference in the conjunction of earth's orbit with this asteroid, and we would have suffered a direct hit, estimated by some scientists as capable of devastating an area larger than the city of London. Chicken Little was certainly right about this: anytime the sky falls, we're in trouble!

Yes, but aren't the various space agencies tracking these foreign objects that speed by us? In fact they are now monitoring 10,000 NEOs (near earth objects) in our solar system. And astronomers are confident they have a handle on every asteroid 19 miles in size and larger (those with the potential to cause global catastrophe and even mass extinction). They are also confident they are tracking between 90-95% of asteroids a half mile in size. But here's the kicker—reduce the asteroid to the size of 2012 DA14 (50 yards) or less, and they are sure of only 2% of these! I.e., “there could be hundreds of thousands of these smaller asteroids waiting to be discovered” (www.guardian.co.uk/science/across-the-universe. . .), hopefully in time.

“The sky is falling, the sky is falling!” Well, not quite. But the strange coincidence of two outer space visitors on the same day is a rather sobering reminder to Earth that life as we know it could be forever altered in a split second by a streak of blinding light across our skies. Not to be forgotten is the somber prediction of Jesus that before His return to earth “the powers of the heavens will be shaken” (Luke 21:26). The obvious point for all of us who live in the “fourth watch” of earth's history is to find in the person of Jesus our reason for living today and our “blessed hope” for tomorrow. After all, He is the Star of every apocalyptic prediction, the Promise behind every transpiring sign. No wonder His very next words are so buoyant with courage: “Now when these things begin to happen, look up and lift up your heads, because your redemption draws near” (v 28).

PRESIDING PASTOR: Sharon Terrell; ORGANIST: Kenneth Logan

Therefore, as God's chosen people, holy and dearly loved, clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience.

Bear with each other and forgive one another if any of you has a grievance against someone. Forgive as the Lord forgave you.

And over all these virtues put on love, which binds them all together in perfect unity.

And whatever you do, whether in word or deed, do it all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him.

MUSIC ALIVE

TWO PATHS

Two paths converge in today's Opening Voluntary. The melody, BEACH SPRING, was named for a Baptist church in Georgia and published in the landmark book The Sacred Harp in the landmark year 1844. Hymns in this and other Southern hymnals of the time tend toward memorable simplicity and directness. In fact, their appeal continues: more than 150 years later there exists an active "Sacred Harp tradition," including conventions ("singings") devoted to singing these melodies. Janet Linker's organ setting of this melody is published referencing a baptismal text. But today we attach it to another: "Lord, whose love in humble service / Bore the weight of human need..." During this morning's Opening Voluntary, why not contemplate the words of hymn no. 363 in the SDA Hymnal?
