PARTY POOPER

Remember that childhood rhyme? “Every party needs a pooper, that’s why we invited you—party pooper, party pooper!” I certainly don’t want to rain on Wall Street’s parade and become the party pooper nobody wants. But in the midst of the hoopla over the Dow Jones industrial average’s new all-time high on Tuesday (14,253.77), could it be a bit premature to be singing, “Happy days are here again!”?

George Friedman, founder and chairman of Stratfor (an intelligence service for those who can afford its fees) and editor of the eLetter “Geopolitical Weekly” (www.stratfor.com for free subscription), made this observation in his eLetter also this Tuesday: “The global financial crisis of 2008 has slowly yielded to a global unemployment crisis. This unemployment crisis will, fairly quickly, give way to a political crisis. The crisis involves all three of the major pillars of

REVIVAL & REFORMATION

SHARRON

She lived with my grandparents as a foster child, but that was the least of the problems in her life. She had cerebral palsy and was also blind. My grandparents, Harry and Elise Cooper, ran the National Transcribing Society for the Blind and cared for many blind children in their home in Mountain View, California.

I first met Sharron when she was seven years old. She was able to answer simple questions and would sing “Jesus loves me this I know...” with fair intonation and clarity of voice. She was able to feed herself with a spoon and even walk around the house without help. For the next five or six years when I went to my grandparents’ house, Sharron’s condition did not change very much. However, as Sharron became an adolescent, her physical and mental condition started to deteriorate. She became combative over simple activities such as help with eating or getting dressed. As Sharron approached 20 years of age, she no longer sang or could answer questions. Eventually Sharron became so violent that she had to be put into an institution. It was impossible for my aging grandparents to care for her, even though they loved her very much.

Having been around children with disabilities, I have often wondered about the relationship between cognition (that which a person understands), conversion, and accountability in God’s plan of salvation. Do I believe that Sharron will be in heaven? Yes—a resounding yes! Do I have a specific Bible promise that says people with little or no cognition will be in heaven? No. But I do have a Bible full of stories that demonstrate God’s love, patience, and mercy that give me the confidence that He will do whatever is necessary to bring home everyone He possibly can. The Cross demonstrates His commitment to that!

It is my belief that those with mental disabilities have a special place in the heart of God. The Seal of God is placed on the forehead of the redeemed because they understand the character of God and have chosen to stand for Him. However, Satan has attacked humanity by curtailing and removing the ability to understand these things, thereby defacing the image of God. We can have confidence that the God who notices a dead sparrow, also sees “the Sharrons of the world,” and that He will save all who are possible to save! —Dennis Hollingsead

Please pray for:

- Those among us who need special help and attention, that we would defend them at all times and support their parents, guardians, and caregivers.
- The effectiveness of the North American Division Health Summit; March 13 – 17 in Flushing, New York.

OPERATING EXPENSE

FAMILY LIFE COMMITTEE / CELEBRATING MARRIAGE

The mission of the Family Life Committee is “Discipling PMC Families: Nurturing Relationships for Now and Eternity.” To fulfill that mission, the committee supports the rich array of programs involving families that is offered by many different groups within our church. When unmet needs are perceived, the FLC attempts to fill the gap.

As the committee was planning upcoming events some years ago, someone noticed that Valentine’s Day that year would be on a Friday. We decided to offer an opportunity for PMC couples that would nurture and celebrate their marriages in a spiritual setting. Friday evening, February 15, 2013, marked the eleventh year we have provided what is now known as the Couples Agape Celebration.

The evening included a home-made meal, a thoughtful and challenging presentation by Jeff and Twyla Smith (FLC members and presenters at Adventist Engaged Encounter), special music by Christina Piccardi, door prizes, and time for spiritual reflection, relaxing and fellowship.

Some comments made by those attending included, “Thank you for the very enjoyable and inspiring evening.” “The time to relax, eat some great food, and spend time associating with friends is always a welcome way to spend Friday evening, especially at Valentine’s Day.” “It was a great date night. The speakers gave us much to think about, the music was very good, and the food was delicious. We especially enjoyed the fellowship of the other couples at our table.” “Everything reminded us that no couple is complete or genuinely happy unless Jesus is a threesome for our lives together.” –Susan Murray

MASTER PLAN OF EVANGELISM

COMMUNITY OUTREACH / AN OPPORTUNITY TO SERVE

It's clear from the New Testament that Jesus spent more time healing than He did preaching. So what does this have to do with Pioneer? We've recently become aware of a huge need in our community. The Berrien Springs public high school has an after-school program called After School Rocks that serves dozens of students who need mentorship. What are some ways that you can be involved?

They have opportunities for everyone to be involved. These range from supervising the check-in desk, teaching a craft (knitting, sewing, scrapbooking), teaching how to cook, doing a health class, speaking about your career, playing games with students (chess, strategy games such as Risk, word games such as Catch Phrase and Apples to Apples), giving music lessons (guitar, piano, singing), tutoring (computer skills, math, writing) and others.

Some of these are students who are part of Pioneer, while some live in the community, and some come from Benton Harbor. What are the qualifications? For one, we're looking for people who like teenagers. If you've ever been around teenagers you'll know that patience is also important. The biggest thing you can do, though, is to be there. Sometimes they just need the presence of an older adult or a university student who can listen to them and provide some guidance in their life.

To get involved go to www.pmchurch.org/serve and select "After School Rocks." This will send your contact information directly to Bonnie Chadderdon who will get you connected. You can also just select "serve" on the back of a Connect Card and we'll get the information to you. Thanks for being a part of what God is doing in the community! —Rodlie Ortiz

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

AA / WINTER BIBLE CAMP

Andrews Academy places incredible value on the Bible, prayer, and partnering with the church so that youth might be formed into devoted followers of Jesus. Their yearly Winter Bible Camp is an example of one of the many opportunities the school provides to put the focus on Bible truths and living a life for God. Sixty students traveled to Camp Au Sable this year for the special spiritual retreat. The theme for the long weekend was “Fight the Good Fight” and Pastor Michael Jones from Minnesota was the speaker. Pastor Jones has an incredible way of getting teens involved in reasoning through Bible topics. Part of the design for the weekend was to get all students to participate in some aspect of the program through skits, singing and other involvement. At various times throughout the camp, time was also set aside for personal Bible study and prayer, small-group discussions and recreation.

Many students (and staff) came back to Andrews Academy changed, with a deeper relationship with Jesus and each other. “Bible Camp was awesome,” said Sophomore Lauren Bell. “I was truly blessed and came home a better person.”

Long after students have forgotten the finer points of Algebra 2, they will remember their experience at Winter Bible Camp. And even as the weather patterns they learned in Earth Science fade from their memory, they will still be able to recall helping others on a Sow Safari mission trip. We are thankful for our Christian school where young people learn about God and His incredible world—inside and outside of the classroom. —Sue Rappette the global system—Europe, China and the United States. The level of intensity differs, the political response differs and the relationship to the financial crisis differs. But there is a common element, which is that unemployment is increasingly replacing finance as the central problem of the financial system” (<http://www.stratfor.com/weekly/europe-unemployment-and-instability>).

Friedman’s piece is a sobering reminder that when it comes to economic realities on this planet, it seems that no sooner do we extricate ourselves from one crisis then we find ourselves collapsing into another.

Take the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention announcement also on Tuesday this week. According to Dr. Tom Frieden, director of the CDC, health care scientists and officials are now tracking a new lethal “superbug” called CRE (Frieden calls it a “nightmare bacteria”) that is resistant to nearly all antibiotics and “kills up to half the patients who become infected” (South Bend Tribune 3-6-13). Frieden announced, “It’s not often that our scientists come to me to say that we have a very serious problem and we need to sound an alarm. But that’s exactly what we’re doing today.” Particularly vulnerable are patients in long-term care units in hospitals and nursing homes.

Party pooper? No. Just the chronicle of the reality of life on this planet. Of course we still celebrate our joys—sunshine and blue sky above a snow-clad landscape, the love of family and friends, the joy of study and work, the laughter of play—we have abundant reasons to thank God for life and health today. But neither are we ostriches—and hiding our heads in the sand won’t make reality go away.

And so, as Jesus admonished His followers living the near edge of time, “Watch and pray” (Luke 21:36). Which the faithful are doing at the Vatican as they await the selection of their new spiritual leader. “Watch and pray.” Which the faithful in North Korea and Syria and Pakistan are doing as they try to correlate the threat of daily life with expectant hope. “Watch and pray.” Because 1 Thessalonians 5 isn’t about party poopers, but rather a vigilant faith community (“children of light” amidst the “darkness”) that recognizes that overnight the tables can turn: “For you yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord [the return of Christ] so comes as a thief in the night. For when they say, ‘Peace and safety!’ [‘Happy days are here again!’], then sudden destruction comes upon them . . . and they shall not escape” (v 2, 3).

Party poopers? Not unless, of course, the party needs to poop out in exchange for a new realism that is vibrant with hope and the deepening conviction it is high time to live out the Christ life while such living can make a difference in this world. If that’s the case, then party poopers let us be!

THE WORD

COLOSSIANS 3:12-14, 17 NIV

Therefore, as God's chosen people, holy and dearly loved, clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness and patience.

Bear with each other and forgive one another if any of you has a grievance against someone. Forgive as the Lord forgave you.

And over all these virtues put on love, which binds them all together in perfect unity.

And whatever you do, whether in word or deed, do it all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him.

MUSIC ALIVESO WERE YOU?

As they spread from tongue to tongue and from heart to heart, the message and melody of many an African-American spiritual have become transformed and renewed. Historically, this transformation thrived in an environment of transience, as slaves moved from one location to another. Emotive strains from two spirituals grace today's celebration. Of "Were You There?," one commentary states, "This is perhaps the most universally used spiritual in all the hymnals of Christendom. With a variant form of the first phrase, it first appeared in print in Old Plantation Hymns" (1899). The commentary continues, "The primary poetic analogy is that all of us were there at Calvary, by virtue of the fact that 'all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God' (Rom. 3:23)."

Everything about the weekends will reflect the beauty and simplicity of God and reveal the relevance of His word in your life in this busy modern world. Registration forms are in the Connections newsletter available at the Welcome Centers.
