WHAT IT MEANS TO BE FAMILY

On behalf of all of us at Pioneer Memorial Church: welcome! We're glad you're here. We've been expecting you. So make yourself comfortable. You're not a visitor. You're our guest. But, of course, we would like to be more than that. We'd love to be family.

You see, being family is a promise, isn't it? It's a promise that we won't let go; that we'll hold each other up; that we'll support and accept each other just as we are. Yup, that's a family. And that's what we invite you to today. You may have thought you were just coming to be a visitor, or even a guest. But the really great thing is the reality that, though you may have come as a first-timer, you can leave as family. So we'll see you next week.

-Rodlie Ortiz

WELCOME HOME!

As our students settle in for the semester we look forward now to welcoming the rest of our extended family, the Andrews University Alumni, into our home. This year marks the 100th anniversary of the AU Alumni Association. As we celebrate this homecoming we look forward to that even greater reunion when Christ returns.

To submit a photo see the requirements on page 14 (in Announcements).

AND SO WE BLEED ON

BY DWIGHT K. NELSON

ave you noticed that life on this home planet of ours is living up to the second law of thermodynamics-that calculus about "entropy," which we've come to define as "a gradual decline into disorder"? This single phrase succinctly, painfully describes the unraveling crisis in the Middle East, doesn't it? (Is the Middle East ever not in crisis?) This week the President announced that once again our nation is at "war" (albeit one theoretically limited only to high altitude fire power) in or above the sprawling desert sands of the Near East. When will this one end? Nobody can say. What the President did say to the United Nations on Wednesday was, "There is a pervasive unease in our world." How true.

So what posture shall we as American Christians, more particularly as Seventh-day Adventist Christians, take to the endless bleed or entropy that retrogrades any hope of lasting peace in that volatile region? We know well our Lord's parting command, "Go into all the world and make disciples of all nations" (Matthew 28:19). And there isn't one of us that doesn't believe that His commission certainly includes the Muslim world's 1.4 billion adherents. But how shall we respond in the face of a global hemorrhage that cannot be staunched? May I suggest three responses? First, we can pray. Dramatic narratives in both testaments of Scripture (read Esther and Acts for starters) depict the people of

LET US PETITION HIM TO HOLD THE ENEMY AT BAY LONG ENOUGH TO REACH ALL OF GOD'S EARTH CHILDREN WHILE THERE IS TIME.

God earnestly interceding for divine intervention and deliverance in the face of dark prospects. The psalmist pleads: "Give us aid against the enemy, for human help is worthless" (Psalm 108:12). The truth is we-Muslims, atheists. Christians-share a common enemy behind all the terror and evil unleashing on earth. Thus the prayer Jesus taught us: "Deliver us from the one" (Matthew evil

6:13). For the sake of God's will being "done on earth even as it is in heaven," let us petition Him to hold the Enemy at bay long enough to reach all of God's earth children while there is time.

Second, there are some of us who can personally go to the deserts sands of human suffering. Right now Adventist Frontier Mission (AFM here in our village) is preparing to send one or two (no doubt young) missionaries to minister to the ISIS-displaced refugees in Erbil, Iraq. The conditions those refugees are enduring (I've seen AFM president Conrad Vine's pictures) are appalling. What more Christ-like response could there be than incarnating His cross-cultural love for these sufferers? (For more information go to www.afmonline.org/missionaries.)

Third, we can join the Friday Prayers for the Muslim world. It is no more logically correct to conclude that the Muslim faith fosters ISIS butchery against Christians, than it is to conclude that the Christian faith fostered the butchery of the Crusades against Muslims long ago. There are millions within Islam today whose hearts are seeking the One true God. Why not join the Friday Prayers that AFM sponsors and intercede for Christ's miraculous breakthrough to these honest in heart (www.afmonline.org/ get-involved/friday-prayers/)?

Will the world slowly bleed out until Christ comes? Without a doubt. In fact believers in Him rightfully conclude there will come a stunning acceleration of evil's hemorrhage as we near the end. But rather than railing against the dark, we must light the bright candle of faith, hope and love. One candle-one intercessor, one volunteer, one missionary, one contagious witness-can dispel the darkness in any corner of Earth. Won't you please be that one?

You can follow Pastor Dwight's blog at www.pmchurch.tv/blog.

"But without faith it is impossible to please Him, for he who comes to God must believe that He is, and that He is a rewarder of those who diligently seek Him." (Hebrews 11:6)

BY DENNIS HOLLINGSEAD

grew up in an Adventist family that included my mother, her adoptive parents, and brother, as well as many members of her birth family. My father's mother was also an Adventist. I grew up in an Adventist home and attended Adventist elementary school, academy, college, and even Andrews University. I attended countless Bible classes and Sabbath Schools. Everything religious was settled in my mind—or so I thought.

At the age of 30, my one-year-old daughter was diagnosed with neutropenia, a disease where little to no white blood cells are present in the blood stream. Her condition was like the "bubble boy," where any bacteria of any kind could kill her. The weeks turned into months and a well-meaning co-worker told me that if I just had enough faith, she would be healed. Well, I was praying but she wasn't being healed! WHY? The implication was that I didn't have enough faith or that my faith wasn't "pure" enough.

Then I realized that the faith I had in God was actually my parents' faith. I had never made it my own. I started to study the book of Job and the rest of the Bible like never before. I learned that faith, belief, and trust in God is not something you pull out of your wallet to use in time of emergency. On the contrary, faith, belief, and trust is how you live every day. Living every moment, in calm assurance that everything will work out for the glory of God and your own ultimate good, if you are willing to give Him control of your life.

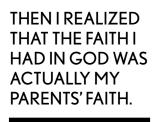

Examine for yourself the beliefs your parents and teachers have given you. Is it true > that God created a vast "playground" for you to explore in the future? Can evil really be explained by the existence of a Hitler or Saddam Hussein who is focused on destroying as much of God's beautiful blue planet as possible? Is there really a heaven to win and a hell to shun? Or is it all a myth? If it is not true, you had better start doing everything you can now because if you're lucky, you have only another 40-60 years and then your light will be extinguished forever.

Your parents' faith is not good enough for you to use. Spend the time this year to get real with God and make it your faith, belief, and trust. ■

ANSWER THE CALL

BY COINTE ST. BRICE

f my 22 years of existence, the year I spent in Pohnpei, Micronesia, as a student missionary led to some of the most challenging, yet rewarding experiences of my life so far. Pastor Dwight Nelson conducted a sermon series, "Radicals," that placed an emphasis on service; specifically student missions. I felt a tugging on my heart to go out and serve and was inspired to answer the call. After finishing a strong freshman year, I was nervous about taking a year off so soon after starting college, but I knew that the plans God had for me far exceeded the expectations I had for myself. I decided to spend a year as a student teacher at a school in Pohnpei from 2011 to 2012.

The exponential growth that I experienced mentally and spiritually throughout the year was a direct result of dealing with the laid-back island culture, teaching students around my age group, and interacting with the students' parents and the other missionaries. I learned what true faith and dependence on God is all about; from asking God to lead in lesson planning for the week, to teaching myself C++, even to building up the courage to face my fear of heights and jumping off a 60 ft. waterfall! There were moments throughout the year where I felt lost and defeated but I can look back now and see that God's hands were guiding me through each trial.

THE LIFE LESSONS THAT YOU LEARN WHILE YOU ARE SERVING OTHERS WILL IN TURN SERVE YOU FOR THE REST OF YOUR EXISTENCE.

There isn't a day that passes where I don't think back on my experience in Pohnpei. I wholeheartedly encourage anyone who is thinking about taking a year off for service not to sit on that calling, but to pray and act! Most students' excuse for not going is the fear of being held back academically. However I can attest that the things you learn during your time overseas about life and yourself cannot be obtained from a textbook or taught in a classroom. The life lessons that you learn while you are serving others will in turn serve you for the rest of your existence. ■ here aren't many shepherds around the sidewalks of Andrews Universityeven at Homecoming here. But God's Word has important references to shepherds, among them the shepherds who heard the angels' song at Jesus' birth. and the Good Shepherd of Psalm 23. So. although shepherding is not our usual context, the scriptural motif of shepherding can teach and encourage us today. While hearing "The Lord's My Shepherd," why not think of yourself as a sheep and meditate on Psalm 23-you, at times calm. troubled, wandering away, and-can it be?-ultimately carried home triumphantly by the Shepherd, in the ultimate gracious homecoming. And as you leave today, why not drink in deep colors from the Good Shepherd window at the back of the balcony? Now there's an enduring visual context for pondering shepherding.

S.M.A.R.T. Tutor Program

A child in poverty who cannot read on grade level by 3rd grade is 13 times less likely to graduate than a proficient, wealthier peer. The Catch A Dream Foundation's S.M.A.R.T. Tutuor Program for the Benton Harbor Area Schools is recruiting tutors for their fall session to help the students become proficient. The tutors spend 1 hour a week in an 8-week session with their student. The students who are being tutored are in grades 1–8. Tutors have their choice of grade level and time between the hours of 8:30 AM and 5 PM. Tutoring is done in reading and math. For more info and to register go to http://bhas.org/domain/77. If you have guestions contact Meredith Sgambelluri at 269.605.2801 or Meredith.Sgambelluri@bhas.org. The first session begins Monday, September 29.

GROW Groups

The GROW Group catalog is here! Now go to pmchurch.org/growgroup. Groups begin next week. Don't miss this opportunity in discipleship and fellowship. Join a GROW Group!

The Beyond Beliefs Study

What do young adults think of the 28 Fundamentals? The Andrews University Religion Department studied 700 Millennials and found out where the beliefs are succeeding and failing with young people. The findings report is available at the ABC Book Center or from Amazon. No parent, minister or teacher should be without this report. See beyond-beliefs. com for more information.

Exercise Class

Exercise Class meets Mondays and Thursdays 6 to 7 PM. Join us to improve your strength, flexibility, and balance.

Berrien County Youth Fair 2014 is over. Animals have returned to their farms, tents have been packed up and stored and the children's rides have moved to a new location. The Health Tent sponsored by the Seventh-day Adventist churches in Berrien County, however, is still around-not in the physical form of a blue and white canvas tent, but at a permanent address on the web-www. IChooseGreatHealth.com.

"This website has been a dream of mine for quite a while," says Melody Wallace, Health Tent leader. "Now we can really connect with the community. We invited everyone at the fair to visit our new website throughout the year as they pursue a healthier lifestyle."

If you go to www.IChooseGreatHealth. com, you can easily access information about the eight health laws or explore great resources such as StepFast.org and AmazingHealthFacts.org. You will also
