WHY WHAT IS HAPPENING A BILLION LIGHT YEARS AWAY
RIGHT NOW MATTERS TO YOU

RECRUITING LIKE ISIS FOR MELCHIZEDEK

CHIAPAS MISSION REPORT

GOD'S FAVORITE DAY

October is Melanie—my wife's—favorite month. I get her perspective; if you think of it, she is right. In October the Concord grapes are spreading their sweet fruit fragrance. In October the crisp mornings and cool evenings are energizing. In October the maple trees are brilliant. In October I married Melanie. . . . She is right, it doesn't get any better. I think Jesus has favorites too—His favorite day must be Sabbath. Think of it, He is right. On Sabbath, His family is together. On Sabbath, there is rest. On Sabbath, time is shared with Him and others. On Sabbath, there is a worship service celebrating the Creator and the act of creation.

—Micheal Goetz

All This RUCKUS Over SECURITY?

BY DWIGHT K. NELSON

Apparently it was quite a heated grilling last Tuesday at the House Oversight Committee's Q & A with Julia Pierson, director of the Secret Service. Two recent lapses in White House and presidential security have certainly raised a non-partisan ruckus in Congress. And perhaps justifiably so.

On September 16 a knife-carrying intruder leaped the White House fence and raced past guards, all the way into the East Room of the White House, an unprecedented breach of security. Then the nation learned that three days previous President Obama, in a visit to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta, had ridden up an elevator with an armed federal contractor. Turns out that gentleman had three convictions for assault and battery on his record. It probably didn't help his case that he stood there in the elevator videoing the President as they ascended!

Thus to note that Julia Pierson's appearance before the Congressional committee was adversarial is perhaps an understatement. "What were you people in the Secret Service thinking?" Etc. To which Ms. Pierson asserted, "The president is safe today." Well.

Let's face it—security is a big deal in anybody's book these days. Commoners like you and me have reason to pause many times in the course of a week over concern about our personal safety and security. We have a new family in our neighborhood that owns a pet pit bull. It may be the friendliest pit bull on earth, but as I run by the house each morning I keep a wary eye for any sign of a dog on the loose!

No Secret Service details are assigned to us. But take heart—we don't go out into this dangerous world unprotected. "The angel of the LORD encamps around those who fear him, and he delivers them" (Psalm 34:7). That's not only a statement of fact—it is also a divine promise! "A guardian angel is appointed to every follower of Christ. These heavenly watchers shield the righteous from the power of the wicked one." And because this is a university, consider the following sentence: ". . . it is their work to guard the youth. . . Ten thousand times ten thousand and thousands of thousands of angels minister to the youth" (The Truth about Angels 14, 19). And besides, if one angel felled an entire battalion of Roman warriors at the resurrection of Jesus, you and I are hardly getting short-changed to have one angel as our night and day guardian!

One of my favorite songs was written and sung by Fernando Ortega: "Jesus, King of Angels, Heaven's light/Hold my hand and keep through this night./Let no evil come into my dreams,/Light of Heaven, keep me in your peace."

Yes, we have the angels. But best all, we have the King of Angels, too. ■

MISSIONARIES NEED MISSIONARIES TOO

BY ANDREA SZYNKOWSKI

Prayer. What a powerful tool we have at our fingertips in our ability to talk to our Creator about anything and everything. I want to talk to you about a group of people who need our prayers—our very own student missionaries from Andrews University. These student missionaries are young people who have dedicated an entire year of their lives to live out the words in Matthew 28, “Go and make disciples of all nations . . .”

As a returning student missionary, I can tell you that I was so thankful for the prayers offered on my behalf while I was away from everything I knew. It can be a scary world out there in a land far away from family and everything familiar. Bradley Church, another returning student missionary from Guyana, puts it this way, "For me, there were times that I just felt like throwing up my hands in frustration and when I simply felt homesick. Knowing that there was a group of people back home praying for me was always a very comforting thought."

PRAYER. WHAT A POWERFUL TOOL WE HAVE AT OUR FINGERTIPS IN OUR ABILITY TO TALK TO OUR CREATOR ABOUT ANYTHING AND EVERYTHING.

As a student missionary, you come across situations that push you to your breaking point, but those same situations also brought me down to my knees. Scott Michael Bennett sings a beautiful song entitled, "Missionaries Need Missionaries Too." The song speaks of how missionaries need prayer and love, and how when you pray for them, you are being a missionary as well. One of the last lines from this song resonates with me in a way that is unexplainable: "Someday in heaven, they'll thank you, for the things your prayers have brought them through . . . you're a missionary too."

Will you be a missionary too? Currently we have 18 wonderful young people out in various parts of the world. We need to surround these beautiful people in prayers and plead that the Holy Spirit will descend on their individual missions. Don't dismiss praying for them because you think that someone else will do it. Pray for them. You will have no idea how much it means to them, and how much your prayers will get them through.

Their names are listed below. If you are impressed to make contact with one or more of them, please email us at cm@andrews.edu for their information. ■

WORDS OF COMMISSION

“Go, Preach My Gospel” is connected today with hymn no. 378. Isaac Watts (1674-1748) wrote highly-varied hymns and scriptural paraphrases. While he was British, his hymns were extremely dominant in hymn publication in America in the early post-Revolutionary period. Among these is his paraphrase of thoughts from Jesus’ Great Commission, a paraphrase in which he used considerable freedom rather than restricting himself to strict rendering of the thoughts. The scriptural allusion—that scripture to which this refers, or alludes—is credited at top page left to “Mark 16:15-17,” rather than to the commission as given in Matthew’s Gospel. Either way, Mark or Matthew, today’s Opening Voluntary uses the expansive hymn tune TRURO (appearing with Watts’ text in no. 378) to give an artistic impression of the breadth, and the warmth, of Jesus’ commission. ■

ANDREWS ACADEMY'S SENIOR CLASS TRIP

BY STEVE ATKINS

Andrews Academy's senior class trip is held each fall. Students form new relationships with each other and strengthen their relationships with Jesus. At Andrews Academy, we purposely include the integration of faith in every aspect of the school experience.

This year, the trip included events such as caving and white water rafting. However, our service day was, for many, the most meaningful part of the trip.

Turning love into action is an important component of faith. Students helped in a veteran's home, a center that provides afterschool activities for low-income children and helped fourth-graders build a community garden at a public school.

This part of the trip helped the students bond as they assisted people who had needs. Students expressed how thankful they were to be part of a Christian school that includes activities like these.

"Our ideas of education take too narrow and too low a range. There is need of a broader scope, a higher aim. True education . . . is the harmonious development of the physical, the mental, and the spiritual powers. It prepares the student for the joy of service in this world and for the higher joy of wider service in the world to come" (Ellen White, Education, page 13).

The organizations that we volunteered for were amazed to see such a cooperative, kind, and hard-working group of teenagers. Many individuals we interacted with throughout the trip expressed that there was "something different about this group of young people." It was an excellent opportunity to witness for Jesus. ■
