WELCOME

to Pioneer

There is probably no more sacred weekend in the Christian calendar than this one. You see, this weekend we celebrate the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. It's a big deal for churches all across the world.

If today is your first time with us, I want to point out two things that we do on Easter Sabbath. First, you'll notice that many around you have come with flowers. There is a part of the service in which people are given an opportunity to bring a flower forward and lay it on the steps in honor of a loved one who has passed away this past year. If you didn't bring a flower, we always bring many to share specifically for that purpose. Receive a flower and bring it to the front in memory of your loved one. Second, we take a moment during this same time to read the names of Pioneer Church family members who have passed away since the last Easter.

The point of all of this is that we remember with hope in our hearts that we will see our loved ones again. And this was made possible because of the resurrection morning. Happy Easter and welcome.

HE LIVES: OF FRAGMENTS AND HARBINGERS

BY DWIGHT K. NELSON

Perhaps we should call this Passion Week a snapshot of fragments. But what a mixed up mosaic it turns out to be:

- The week begins on Sunday with Tiger Woods making what one commentator declared “the greatest comeback in all of sports history!” as he won the coveted Masters green jacket for the 5th time, his first major golf championship in eleven years—a comeback feat phenomenal considering his 2010 on-camera live confession of a moral meltdown and a series of back surgeries that precipitated a wilderness-wandering dearth of golfing and personal success—all of it erased in the glory of the Masters—yup, phenomenal!

- Also on Sunday South Bend Mayor Pete Buttigieg formally announced his candidacy for U.S. president, becoming the first Millennial and first LGBT candidate in the race for the White House. His on-camera kiss with his husband choreographed new parameters for presidential politics.

- The tragic fire in the Notre Dame cathedral in Paris galvanized the world on Monday, as flames engulfed this 850 year old iconic Roman Catholic church, ravaging the roof and inner sanctuary, collapsing the famed spire, but somehow sparing its twin towers and adjoining cathedral structures—while cordoned crowds mourned and sang and prayed—and billionaires stepped forward to raise

(in the two days since) over €1 billion for its renovation.

- On Tuesday the FBI announced they were seeking a young Florida woman of interest, purportedly fascinated by the Columbine massacre (that left fifteen dead) 20 years ago this weekend—and because her whereabouts in the Denver area are still unknown authorities shut down more than 130 schools.

- And on Wednesday a Russian company announced plans “to build gigantic billboards in space, lighting up the night sky with advertisements for companies like Coke, McDonald’s, and KFC” by placing “dozens of tiny CubeSats into orbit roughly 280 miles above the ground in a single rocket,” tiny boxes that would fly in formation “and deploy giant reflective sails to send the sun’s light to Earth” (each sail independently controlled to behave “like programmable pixels”)—all of which could come to a night sky near you by 2021! (www.popularmechanics.com/space/satellites/a25950681/startrocket-space-billboards/)

What a world this is this Passion Week (and the half hasn’t been told)!

But how far away and long ago—in muted contrast to our headlines—is the eyewitness story of an innocent Man who was crucified on Friday and who rose triumphant as God Almighty early Sunday morning. How far away and how long ago.

Yet every story recounted in this Passion Week's headlines is mysteriously bound up in the saga of the living Christ:

- Who for Buddhist adherent Tiger Woods surely longs for the day when He will be the only winning Master Woods seeks (Acts 4:12).
- Who for Pete Buttigieg offers the highest position in the universe—a seat beside Him on the throne of God (Revelation 3:21).
- Who for the parishioners of Notre Dame cathedral promises an even more glorious temple unrivaled, awaiting the arrival of us all (Revelation 21:22-24).
- Who for the young woman and the inhabitants of Denver and the survivors of Columbine offers a no-fear peace that can never be taken away even now (John 14:27).
- Who for the Russian promoters—and the rest of civilization staring into the heavens for some sign of security, of hope—promises to set those heavens ablaze with the only ever full-sky marketing on the day He returns for every friend He's ever had (Titus 2:11-14).

“Do not be afraid. I am the First and the Last. I am the Living One; I was dead, and now look, I am alive for ever and ever! And I hold the keys of death and Hades” (Revelation 1:17-18). Christ promises.

In the words of the poet Christian Wiman: “Christ is not alive now because he rose from the dead two thousand years ago. He rose from the dead two thousand years ago because he is alive right now” (My Bright Abyss: Meditation of a Modern Believer 165). In the midst of a week of fragments and harbingers we call life, He lives. Right now.

Rejoice! ■

MUSIC ALIVE

"WERE YOU THERE?"

As they have spread from tongue to tongue, from heart to heart, the message and melody of many an African-American spiritual have become transformed and renewed. Emotive strains from a spiritual graces today's celebration of Jesus' resurrection . . . before His resurrection was His cross on that unparalleled weekend. Of "Were You There?" one commentary states, "This is perhaps the most universally used spiritual in all the hymnals of Christendom. With a variant form of the first phrase, it first appeared in print in Old Plantation Hymns" (1899). The commentary continues, "The primary poetic analogy is that all of us were there at Calvary, by virtue of the fact that 'all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God' (Rom. 3:23)." ■

Jesus and Alexander died at thirty-three;

The Greek made all men slaves; the Jew made all men free.

One built a throne on blood; the other built on love;

The one was born of earth; the other from above.

One won all this earth, to lose all earth and heaven;

The other gave up all, that all to Him be given.

The Greek forever died; the Jew forever lives;

He loses all who gets, and wins all things who gives.
