STRENGTH TO GIVE THANKS

It was an impromptu interview of a father and his son in the aftermath of the terrorist attacks in France. When the reporter asked the boy who couldn't be more than 5 years old how he made sense of it, he said "they were mean men." As the boy continued, he revealed his own fear to his papa beside him. His dad pointed him to the outpouring of love through the makeshift memorial of flowers and candles left in memory of the victims. I was moved to tears because of the joy that illuminated his anxious little face. It was enough for that boy to know from his dad that love is more powerful than "the terror that comes by night." We live in uncertain times but today we will rehearse the words of our heavenly Father. They point us to the cross as a memorial of His great love for us. May the joy of His salvation illuminate our lives and give us strength to give thanks. —Sabine Vatel

GO: PROJECTS

"The King will reply, 'Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.'"
(Matthew 25:40 NIV)

BY GO PROJECT LEADERS

The premise of GO PROJECTS is really simple—show the love of Jesus to the community in practical ways. Since its creation last year, GO PROJECTS has touched the lives of many around the Berrien Springs Area. GO PROJECTS brings both students and professionals together in an environment where they have been able to volunteer and spread God's love in many different ways. They have been able to use some very cool and creative ways to bring joy to others during this past year. A few months ago, the GO PROJECT team got together and decided to help out the elderly and disabled. They spent the day raking leaves and clearing the yards of several homes; spreading God's love through acts of service.

On August 28, a group of 30 students went to Benton Harbor to paint and place mulch down for a few kindergarten playgrounds. Benton Harbor hadn't built a new school since the 1950's and so the playgrounds there were in bad shape. Rust was showing through peeling paint. There were sharp and dangerous edges as a result of that. Randy Mack, who works here at Andrews University, is an expert with paint and was an invaluable part of this GO PROJECT. Jaime Wright from Plant Services also provided a tremendous amount of support.

Barbers, stylists, and several volunteers from Andrews and the community got together for our 2nd annual "Free Haircuts for Kids" event on September 27. This was an event where kids came and got their haircut before picture day, played games, ate food, painted pumpkins, and had their faces painted.

FUTURE PROJECTS INCLUDE:

- Singing at the Hanson Hospice Center
- Passing out winter survival kits
- A Valentine's Program at Timber Ridge

If you or someone you know would like to get involved with GO PROJECTS contact Haley Russell at: haley.russell27@yahoo.com. ■

I AM A STUDENT MISSIONARY

BY LARIZA DUNCAN

My name is Lariza Duncan. I had heard of student missions, because it was talked about in vespers. I even thought about how one day I would like to go, but I never thought I would actually follow through so soon. Now here I am, in Hawaii! This is by far one of the best spontaneous decisions I have ever made, and a huge stepping-stone in my life. After 3 years of college, I was incredibly anxious. I was not able to focus, it took a large amount of my mental and physical energy to want to study. I was too tired to have a social life so I barely left my room except for class, food, soccer, and church. I made myself stay with the singing group I was in because it was an excuse to get out of my room. I was burned out and I wanted to get away—anywhere. I missed being happy and I forgot what it felt like to relax.

My mind was focused on my goals of school because we are taught that you will get nowhere without a college degree. But during finals week the thoughts of going away somewhere would not leave my mind. At night I couldn't sleep because my mind kept wandering; I wanted to get away. All this was making me more anxious because I was supposed to be focused on studying for finals. I decided to entertain the thought and looked up the farthest, sunniest places I could go. I even looked up schools, or places I could stay, and the student missions listings.

One day I gave in, got up, and went straight to the student missions office and told Chaplain Price I think I wanted to do student missions. She said I was really, really late but they would do their best to see if they could make this possible. I felt really strongly about Hawaii, so even though there were no listings, she emailed them anyways, and they said to go ahead and send my resume. Somehow I finished all the paperwork during finals week. I finally got the call about 2 weeks before they wanted me to fly out! The whole thing happened so smoothly, and they even paid for my plane ticket. Pretty soon I was on my way to Hawaii.

Sometimes I ask God, how did I get here? But I think I know why I am here. He wanted the chance for me to have one-on-one time with Him, far away from the things that distracted me and made me anxious. I'm surrounded by some of the most friendly strangers I have ever met. I am surrounded by so much beauty it almost seems unreal. I am surrounded by family. I see God here in a way I hadn't back on the mainland. I see Him everywhere now when I hike and He is just so beautiful. The majority of these dorm students are being exposed to God for the first time, so it makes me so happy when I see them pray for the first time, or sing, or ask me questions about God. They may not know Him yet, but they are breathing in His character and it is contagious. My anxiety is slowly going away; it feels so nice to be happy again. I am learning to love, and how to be loved. There is just something I can't explain about it that feels satisfying. If I had not gone into the student missions office, I may have missed all of this.

I know I will finish school, and that may be when I come back or the next year, but my mind has become a little more relaxed in a way that I now understand that God has good ideas for my life too. What I've been learning while here in Hawaii is to rethink my faith and ask questions. Honestly, I believe if the God whom I've come to know was here on this Earth right now, I wouldn't find Him sitting in the church all the time. I feel as though I'd see Him out doing something: picking up trash at the beach, feeding the homeless, talking with strangers and forming relationships. He would be going straight for where the fish are.

HONESTLY, I BELIEVE IF THE GOD WHOM I'VE COME TO KNOW WAS HERE ON THIS EARTH RIGHT NOW,
I WOULDN'T FIND HIM
SITTING IN THE CHURCH
ALL THE TIME.

Thank you Student Missions for this opportunity. Thank you Hawaii for showing me what heaven must be like. Thank you God for the anxiety that encouraged me to go somewhere, otherwise I would have missed all of this. I love you and I finally get it. I'm even ready for round two whenever that may be! ■

Lariza Duncan is a senior Psychology PrePA, who is serving as Dean in Hawaii.

IN TOUCH

BY KENNETH LOGAN

Have you ever seen the like? I mean, this world that is around us—today.

Is this the world of Maltbie Babcock, author of “This Is My Father’s World?” What was he thinking? “This is my Father’s world, and to my listening ears, all nature sings, and round me rings the music of the spheres.” Tall, muscular and broad-shouldered, he was a silver-tongued speaker, with magnetic personality; and a skilled musician and accomplished scholar.

Babcock often walked on a New York hill with a commanding view of Lake Ontario, and he would say, “I’m going out to see my Father’s world.” But was he in touch with the world’s reality? And can his words speak powerfully to us today, two weeks post-Paris? “Why should my heart be sad? The Lord is King; let the heavens ring! God reigns; let the earth be glad.”

Death unexpectedly struck Babcock in Europe, too; he died at age 42 on a cruise in Naples, Italy. “O let me ne’er forget that though the wrong seems oft so strong, God is the Ruler yet.”

But back to the world around us—today. Is it anything like the world of Martin

Rinkart, author of “Now Thank We All Our God?” This hymn shines against the gruesome backdrop of ten million deaths in Germany during the Thirty Years’ War (1618-1648). His pastorate in Eilenburg, Germany coincided closely with this war. “Now thank we all our God with heart and hands and voices . . .”

Eilenburg was walled, and thus attracted war refugees. Unusual overcrowding and food shortages resulted, with increased danger of epidemic disease. “O may this bounteous God through all our life be near us, with ever joyful hearts and blessed peace to cheer us . . .” At times Rinkart conducted as many as about 45 burials per day. His wife succumbed to the plague; he became ill, but survived.

Circumstances imply that Rinkart wrote “Now Thank We All Our God” in about 1635; a plague was severe in 1637. One could say that he was profoundly in touch with reality . . . which makes the more remarkable his take: “All praise and thanks to God . . . be given . . .” ■

THANKSGIVING CARDS

THANK YOU ALL OVER THE WORLD

Thanksgiving cards are placed inside this bulletin . . . giving you the perfect opportunity to write a special personal word of gratitude, or love, or friendship, or forgiveness this morning. Simply write your message, fold it only once, write the address on the designated side, and bring your letter forward. We'll do the rest, mailing your letter anywhere in the world you want to send it. (If it's a campus address, write "Campus" under the name on the outside.) ■

SUBMIT announcements by emailing bulletin@pmchurch.org or by going to www.pmchurch.org/announcements/submit. Requests must be received Monday by 5:00 PM for consideration.
