“Sing to him, sing praise to him; tell of all his wonderful acts. Glory in his holy name; let the hearts of those who seek the LORD rejoice. Look to the LORD and his strength; seek his face always” (1 Chronicles 16:9).

What a privilege is ours to come to worship, to praise and to seek the Almighty God of the universe. And His promise to you and me is: “And if you seek Him, He will be found by you.” May our hearts rejoice together in our worship. Welcome to worship students, visitors and members. CONTACTS

THE LITTLE SYRIAN ANGEL

BY DWIGHT K. NELSON

The world's heart has been broken over a video clip gone viral two weeks ago. Who can forget the picture of that five-year-old Syrian boy, pulled from the rubble of an Aleppo building, the victim of yet another lethal bomb in the war-torn city. Stunned and mute, the boy is seated on an orange jump seat in the back of an ambulance, the side of his head gashed by some projectile. While the video rolls, the young child stares back with blank expression, bewildered into silence. Not even a sob. Silence. What was he thinking in that moment of sheer terror? His chubby hand reaches up to his mane of hair, piled high now on his head, soaked in his own blood. The boy begins to rub his temple where the wound is coagulating. And as he rubs, his hand is soon stained red. Silence. Staring out the open gate of the vehicle, he keeps rubbing (www.aljazeera.com/news/2016/08/haunting-video-bewildered-syrian-boy-viral-160818080939606.html).

What does five-year-old Omran Daqneesh have to do with you and me on this holiday weekend in this country surprisingly still at relative peace? (The “the boy in the ambulance,” as he is now remembered, survived, as did his parents and two of his three siblings.) I wonder to myself if he is not a symbol of an entire civilization. A dazed world with a billion heartaches and as many broken lives, staring blankly into the lens of eternity, not knowing, and too wounded to even care, who is on the other side of that glass eye that stares back.

The narratives across the earth are a billion times different, but the story tragically the same: forces beyond our control locked in a mortal battle for this race, this very human race. We know the enemy and his dark heart. The insanity that rules his mind we know all too well.

But do we know the Father of the race? Do we share His shattered heart?

Jesus once asked: “Are not two sparrows sold for a penny? Yet not one of them will fall to the ground outside your Father’s care. . . . You are worth more than many sparrows.” (Matthew 10:29-30). “Your Father in heaven is not willing that any of these little ones should perish” (Matthew 18:14). “No, the Father himself loves you” (John 16:27). “For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life” (John 3:16).

“Not a sigh is breathed, not a pain felt, not a grief pierces the soul, but the throb vibrates to the Father’s heart. . . . [I]t is in this speck of a world, in the souls that He gave His only-begotten Son to save, that His interest and the interest of all heaven is centered. God is bending from His throne to hear the cry of the oppressed. To every sincere prayer He answers, ‘Here am I.’ He uplifts the distressed and downtrodden. In all our afflictions He is afflicted. In every temptation and every trial the angel of His presence is near to deliver” (Desire of Ages 356).

Into the world of Omran Daqneesh we must hurry to bring the urgently Good News of this Father of Jesus who is our Father, too. And Omran’s Father. And the fiercely loving Father of this very human race. Time is running out for Aleppo, Syria, the United States, the world. If we don’t go now, will we ever go?

Hope Trending is six weeks away. Like no other previous effort to communicate the Good News of our God, Hope Trending will plunge through the wide open door of the Internet, and through social media connect with thousands of this civilization. Not only through digital communities, but through the warm, friendly environ of your Watch Party, hundreds and thousands of Watch Parties. The stunned, blank face of that little Syrian angel is an impassioned appeal to those who know the Good News to share the Good News. While there is still time.

Which is why this is the right time for you to prayerfully assemble your Watch Party for Hope Trending—isn’t it? (For more information: www.hopetrending.org.) ■

GO MAD NOW!

BY TAURUS MONTGOMERY

While the semester is still fresh, even if you're not a freshman, there is one thing I want to guarantee you will happen before we reach finals week—you will get mad. It may last for a moment, an hour, a day, or longer. But trust me, you will get mad.

You will probably get mad at yourself for leaving your wallet in the car or losing your keys . . . again, or misplacing your phone. Or you will likely get mad at yourself because you procrastinated again after you said you wouldn't . . . again. Maybe you're among those who will get mad at the professor for giving you "too much" work and not enough grace. Or at Campus Safety for giving you a ticket you know you deserved. Still others will get mad at our beloved Andrews University's blazing Internet speed.

No worries. Getting mad is a natural and normal part of life.

Even Jesus got mad. No. I mean really, really mad. I'm talking about making a whip and turning over tables mad. But do you know why He got mad? Maybe you are familiar with the story of Jesus cleansing the Temple found in Matthew 21:12-13. The first time I read the story of Jesus I was shocked! This portrait of Jesus does not agree with the old song "gentle Jesus meek and mild." Clearly, Jesus was mad! Why? The answer is found within this one verse: "My house will be called a house of prayer, but you are making it 'a den of robbers'" (Matthew 21:13). When you consider the context of this story, there are many things you can extrapolate from it? Here is the one I want you to catch. Greed, a fruit of selfishness, caused the religious leaders of the day to take advantage of the less fortunate members of the church. The saints of God were turning the house of God into a den of robbers. In other words, what really makes Jesus mad is when people, especially His professed people, exploit His oppressed people.

As followers of Christ, the things that make Him mad should also make us mad. Christ didn't just get mad about it; He went MAD (made a difference) about it. This is what I want to challenge you to do this semester as we embark upon a new school year. Where other human beings are suffering, don't just get mad, GO MAD (make a difference)!

Being a student, there is a constant temptation to just focus on academics. Grades are important, but I'm glad that 18 years ago, students who were sitting where you are today, did not fall into that temptation. Every week, they bolted 18-minutes north of AU to Benton Harbor, a city plighted with more than enough issues to make you mad. Every week they determined to go MAD in Benton Harbor. Now, 18 years later, we will be celebrating the Grand Opening to the new Harbor of Hope on September 10, 2016, kicking off with a FREE Pancake Breakfast at 10:30AM (that was an invitation). There was a method to their madness!

Earlier this year, some colleagues and I got mad that some elderly residents of Benton Harbor were not able to care for their homes properly. We went MAD by launching an initiative called Our Two Cents to transform homes (through repairs) and lives (through prayers).

There are also opportunities for you to go MAD here in Berrien Springs. There are clubs and organizations on campus that do outreach. One cool way of getting involved is through Pioneer's monthly GO Projects.

If you are wondering, "With so many opportunities, how do I know where to go MAD?"

Here is my advice. After prayer, here are two simple questions to consider: (1) Are people being taken advantage of, deprived, underserved or exploited—either spiritually, economically, socially, or physically? If the answer is yes, it's worth it! (2) Does it make you mad enough to go MAD about it? If yes, then do it!

Ultimately, trust that God will show you because, trust me, He wants you to GO MAD NOW! ■

INTERSECTING

Where do the "Neanderthal man" and "Praise to the Lord" intersect? The hymn writer was rector of a Calvinistic Lutheran school in Germany. However, as a Pietist he held his own prayer meetings, without consulting the minister, leading to suspension followed by humiliating reinstatement with a ban on his public preaching. This writer loved a particular valley with high rocky sides through which the Düssel river flows, and he composed hymns there during his enforced silence. The hymn writer? Joachim Neander (1650-1680), after whom the Neanderthal Valley and an anthropological discovery, the so-called "Neanderthal man," were named. Neander composed the original German text on which "Praise to the Lord" (hymn no. 1) is based, and a version of its typical melody underlies today's Opening Voluntary. ■

A Note from The Andreasesns

Dear Friends in Andrews University and Pioneer Memorial Church:

The time has come for us to say goodbye after 22 years in this exciting and caring community. Andrews and PMC have been good to us, and we have been blessed. Due to some family arrangements we are returning to the place where we began, more years ago than we care to admit—our "second home" as it were, and a little closer to our kids. However, we will continue our relationship with Andrews and return for visits from time to time.

Thank you for your friendship and support. Your presence in our lives and many acts of kindness have made our work and daily life so much easier and very fulfilling. The memories of these many years will stay with us and be a constant reminder that God is good and generous. Place your trust in Him!

May God continue to bless you with His love and care.

With gratitude,
Demetra and Niels-Erik Andreassen
